In this tale of high-spirited and terrifying adventure, set against the background of the West that Larry McMurtry has made his own, By Sorrow's River is an epic in its own right, with an extraordinary young woman as its leading figure. At the heart of this third volume of his Western saga remains the beautiful and determined Tasmin Berrybender, now married to the "Sin Killer" and mother to their young son, Monty. By Sorrow's River continues the Berrybender party's trail across the endless Great Plains of the West toward Santa Fe, where they intend, those who are lucky enough to survive the journey, to spend the winter. They meet up with a vast array of characters from the history of the West: Kit Carson, the famous scout; Le Parlezon, the fearsome Sioux war chief; two aristocratic Frenchmen whose eccentric aim is to cross the Great Plains by hot air balloon; a party of slavers; a band of raiding Pawnee; and many other astonishing characters who prove, once again, that the rolling, grassy plains are not, in fact, nearly as empty of life as they look. Most of what is there is dangerous and hostile, even when faced with Tasmin's remarkable, frosty sangfroid. She is one of the strongest and most interesting of Larry McMurtry's women characters, and is at the center of this powerful and ambitious novel of the West.

It was spring in New Mouse City! I love to celebrate the season with my fellow mice by exchanging chocolate eggs and competing in a confectionary challenge. This year, there was also a special exhibition of priceless jeweled Mousebergé eggs in town. Then one of the Mousebergé eggs was stolen... and it was up to me to find it! Squeak! Could I chase it down?

How do the temporal and dynamic patterns of media forms and practices create complex constructions of meaning, identity and value? How can we describe the way cinematic images generate and transform the affectively grounded structures that survey, confirm or revise a political community's horizon of values? Using the exemplary case of feelings of guilt, the author develops an approach that makes patterns of audiovisual compositions intelligible as aesthetic modulations of moral feelings. A sense of guilt is presented here as neither an individualistic psychological emotion nor an external social mechanism of control but as a paradigmatic case for understanding politics and history as based upon embodied affectivity and shared relations to the world. By taking three distinct examples – German Post-War cinema, Hollywood Western and films on climate change – patterns of audiovisual composition and the inherent calculation of affect are analyzed as practices shaping the conditions of possibility of political communities and their historicity.

All his life, Chris Butsch lived on the fast track to success. Go to school, get good grades, get a job, profit. That's how it works, right? So he thought, until he was diag-nosed with clinical depression in his early twenties. Determined to find a long-term cure, Chris began a worldwide quest to conquer the plague of unhappiness blanketing the Millennial generation. On the way, Chris interviewed hundreds of psychologists, swamis, millionaires, monks, and Millennials from thirty-one different countries, devouring decades of positive psychology research as he went. Eager to share his discoveries, Chris walks readers through the essentials of building a happy life: Discerning the difference between true happiness vs. fleeting pleasures; Tailoring your environment for optimum performance through improved sleeping habits and exercise goals; Optimizing focus and gray matter through meditation and mindfulness. With wit, humor, and charm, Chris artfully captures the struggle of Millennials nationwide while crafting intelligent, actionable, and science-backed solutions. A must-read for any young person, or anyone trying to make their way in the world, The Millennial's Guide to Making Happiness, Volume I, puts a humorous, personal, and scientific spin on the pursuit of happiness.
